HUGHES RELATIVES TO RECEIVE $5,000

and Mary, the wife of John H. Schrad, $50 to Edward, son of Michael Hughes, and $50 to his nephew, Dr. George F. Shedy.

The residue is bequeathed to St. Patrick's Church corporation. The executors are named in the will, Bernard Keating, John Hughes and the Rev. James B. Nihil. The will was drawn on June 2, 1910. Hughes' death occurred Sept. 24, 1910.

The estate of the deceased consisted principally of property in Main street at the foot of Elm street, occupied by O'Neill's rubber store. It is estimated that St. Patrick's church will receive nearly $30,000 when the bequests are paid.

The witnesses to be examined at the hearing on Oct. 25 are City Auditor Bernard Keating, Bernard Keating, Jr., and Deputy Auditor Henry J. Walters.

With Arcanum lodge, I. O. O. F., turning out in a body, funeral services over the remains of Francis D. Hughes were held from his late home, 230 Liberty street, yesterday, at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. Robert Higginbotham of South Congregational church conducting the services. It was the first occasion that the Odd Fellows have appeared out at a funeral of a brother member in some time and the honor is considered a high one.

30,000 BASEBALL BUGS SEE MACK'S ATHLETICS JUMP ON OVERALL

Shibe Park, Phila., Oct. 17.—Surrounded by 30,000 baseball "bugs" Philadelphia Athletics and the Chicago Cubs fought out the first battle for the championship of the world today.

Bender and Thomas were selected as the battery for the Athletics, while Overall and Kling were chosen to do the same work for the Cubs.

The crowd was the greatest that ever gathered in this sober city and from the noise and palpitation, one wondered how it was that Philadelphia got her name of being well, not so very fast. It was the biggest baseball day Philadelphia has ever known, and she seemed to appreciate the honor. The stands, pavilions and bleachers were crowded, while the outfield, with the exception of a gap in centerfield, which served as an entrance and exit, resembled the interior of a subway car in rush hours. The circus seats failed to arrive and the 8,000 outfielders had to stand throughout the afternoon. It was a fairly impartial crowd and when the spongy-like Chicago led his gray-clad men onto the field at 1:15, the visitors received a tremendous ovation. Owing to the crowd in the field, the rules were changed, which allowed two bases on a hit beyond the ropes.

In the preliminary practice, Jimmy Dyngert pitched to the Athletics and "Kling" Cole warmed up the Cub batters. There was no denying that the Cubs appeared more at ease than the home boys. From the way they handled themselves it was evident that they were slighted in the game.

The residents along 20th street made money letting out their roofs, porches and front rooms at a dollar per hour. It was a great day for the photographers who were allowed to roam the field until just before the game began.

Just before the game started there was a row between the umpires and the moving picture men who had their machines stationed just behind the home plate near the stand. The umpires ordered the machine off but the proprietor appealed to the higher officials, the members of the National Commission, and won out. The crowd became nervous over the delay and huffed and catcalled.

At the last moment the moving picture machine was moved back of third base.

would-be base stealers of the Athletics. Overall immediately began with terrific speed. Strunk bunted toward third and thought he had a clean single but was out. Chance hit the ball out when he finally made the break, by a perfect throw from Kling to Tinker. Collins seemed surprised that his speed proved unavailing. The retirement of the Athletics did not meet with any cheers though one of the greatest ovations of the afternoon was turned loose when Chance stepped to the plate at the beginning of the second.

After fouling off the first ball and then biting at a wide one, Chance hit to short and was thrown out by Barry.

Shimmerman fouled to Baker. Steinfield, with one side of his face puffed out, was hit by a ball from Baker and was an easy out at first. No runs. Bender had proved very effective.

Baker's third base hit was a first ball pitched, the ball rolling in to the crowd close to the foul line. The crowd went into a wild uproar and with Davis up the prospects looked good for a run. Kling and Overall met in the center of the diamond for a confidential chat. Kling tried to catch Baker napping at second, but Baker divined his intentions and stole.

PARTY FAITHFUL DINNER GUESTS OF MR. GOODWIN

A little dinner to the Republican town chairman and some of the district registrars and workers of the 21st, 22nd, 23rd, 24th, 26th and 27th Senatorial districts was held today at the Stratfield, this city, with Charles A. Goodwin, Ebenezer J. Hill and Sidney M. Hawley seated at the head of the table along with M. J. Kenney, chairman of the Republican state committee.

The scheme was for those invited only and the purpose of it was to find out how things looked in the districts mentioned. A similar meeting was held last week at Hartford with representatives from all the vicinity of the capital present.

Mr. Goodwin who thinks it a good idea to meet the party leaders around the festive board. In Hartford those present at the dinner reported that everything looked fine for the ticket, and it is not supposed that anyone will have the nerve to tell the truth at the conclave following the dinner this afternoon. Whether E. J. Hill took one of the hotel menu cards and ate a talk on the price of shrimps, wheat biscuits today as compared with the cost of living in Norwalk before the war, or whether he went in to effect was not given out.

But it was noted that several of the Republican leaders who make $20 or less a week were putting away all of that good Stratfield grub that J. P. Morgan's "cousin Charlie" would buy for them for they were fully aware that their pay envelopes and the present cost of food put them in the same class as the sparrows who find crumbs in time when the snow in the winter. It's pretty soft being a Republican leader these days because there is a square meal in it.

All of the town chairman were somewhat elated with the news that there is going to be a largess of Republican money this year.

BAPTISTS OF STATE NOW IN SESSION HERE

With Rev. J. Wilbur Richardson of Stamford presiding the Baptist Ministers of Connecticut met in their 23rd annual convention at the First Baptist church here this afternoon. This is the first of a series of anniversary sessions of the state society connected with the Baptists in the Nutmeg state. This evening the Baptist Young People's state organization will hold its 13th annual convention.

The Women's Baptist Foreign Missionary Society will meet to-morrow afternoon. Other societies will meet before the adjournment of the convention Wednesday evening with the annual banquet at the Stratfield at which the principal speaker will be the Rev. Cortland Meyers, D. D., an eminent divine of Boston.

GOODWIN HERE TONIGHT.
Charles A. Goodwin, Republican candidate for governor will be the principal speaker at the first Republican rally of the campaign which will be held at Warner hall this evening.

W. Chandler of Rocky Hill, and Judge G. P. Carlson, of Middletown, will be the candidates for the first district. The name of the operators there have been unable to get into communication with the dirigible America.

The operators gave it as their opinion that the big ship is now heading east, the wind at that time being favorable for holding the America on a course.

New York, Oct. 17.—Advices received at 10:45 this morning from the Marconi station at Capertown, N. S., stated that the operators there have been unable to get into communication with the dirigible America.

The operators gave it as their opinion that the big ship is now heading east, the wind at that time being favorable for holding the America on a course.

New York, Oct. 17.—Practically perfect weather prevails today in the course of Walter Wellman's balloon America, and according to the weather bureau they could have better treatment from the elements for the trans-Atlantic voyage. The official forecast follows:

"Fair weather, with moderate westerly winds, will prevail today in the steamer lanes supposed to be followed by the Wellman balloon. The conditions are highly favorable for the airship."

WEDDING FOLLOWS COURTSHIP BEGUN IN SCHOOL DAYS

Local society turned out in large numbers this morning at the wedding of Miss Mabel Agnes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Greenwood of Sanford avenue and Mr. James Anthony Meath, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Meath of Pembroke street, solemnized with a nuptial mass at St. Augustine's church at 9 o'clock, by the pastor, Rev. J. McElroy.

The edifice was well filled with the invited guests for the couple are well known and popular. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Ethel Greenwood, while Mr. Thomas Meath, brother of the groom, was best man. The ushers at the church were Thomas F. Walsh, Dr. Joseph J. Meyers, J. Roemer Wakeman and Stanley Greenwood, the latter a brother of the bride.

The bridal party entered the church to the strains of the wedding march from Lohengrin by Prof. Alfred T. Brisebois, who presided at the organ. The bride was given away by her father, Mr. John Greenwood.

The bride was attired in a beautiful creation of white, hand embroidered satin, with a high collar and deep lace. She wore a flowing white veil and carried a showering bouquet of lilacs of the valley and white bridal roses. The bridesmaid was beautifully attired in a peach colored satin, veiled in chiffon, and carried a large bouquet of white chrysanthemums. Mrs. Greenwood, the mother of the bride wore grey charmeuse, and carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums. Mrs. Meath, mother of the groom, wore black net. The many invited guests, most of them old young friends of the contracting parties, were very becomingly attired.

Following the church ceremony the bridal party repaired to the home of the bride's parents in Sanford avenue, where the reception to the happy couple was held, after which the trip will include Atlantic City, Washington and Niagara Falls and will be extended for some time.

The bride and groom are graduates of Bridgeport High school in the class of 1905. It was back in those school days that the courtship started that ended in the happy nuptial ceremony. In her senior year was chosen the best looking among the young ladies, which honor she won among the men. Mr. Meath is in the advertising business in this city.

WELLMAN NOT HEARD FROM BY WIRELESS TODAY

WAITING FOR MESSAGE BY WIRELESS FROM BIG DIRIGIBLE BALLOON.
Siasconset, Mass., Oct. 17.—With moderate westerly winds blowing steadily since midnight last night, the dirigible balloon America, commanded by Walter Wellman and his crew of five on board, is believed today to be sailing steadily east by north toward the Irish coast.

Up in the big wireless tower here today, A. H. Ginnman, the operator, anxiously listening for some word that will show the exact whereabouts of the navigators of the air. The local station and it is believed enough to Cape Sable to pick up that station at all.

But the weather conditions could not be made perfect had they been ordered by the men who are trying to establish a new record for a lighter than air machine. They are able to find that will supply very precious should bad weather be met with in time when the wind at the same time the big dirigible, according to last accounts, is being held on her course at a speed of not less than twenty knots an hour.

No word has come from the dirigible since the last fact was known yesterday. It was the good-bye sent by Jack Irwin almost within an hour of the departure of the balloon. Irwin, as wireless operator on the Baltic, caught the "C. Q. D." appeal for help of Jack Binns, sent from the dirigible. And, as on that occasion, Binns carefully husbanded his "juice," so yesterday Irwin said he had no battery power to waste on idle conversation. But it was believed this morning that before this time was over the word would be an exact line on the position of the America. Entrances in Main street, Fairfield avenue, and Cannon street

Bridgeport, Conn.,
Monday, October 17, 1910.

The Weather—Fair tonight and tomorrow.

Shirting madras and percale in next-season's patterns at below regular price!

News quite out of the ordinary. And for a very simple reason.

Big shirt-makers have the mill make up their fabrics in special lengths—and early. If a piece runs longer than this special length, they cannot use it to advantage. Their business is worth enough to the mill-men so they are willing to cut off the surplus from these overlong pieces.

These cut-offs make up the collection here told of, that goes on sale Tuesday morning. Cut from pieces printed for next season's business.

Bright fresh crisp and delightfully-new. White grounds, in every case. Printed in handsome patterns in black and in colors and in combinations of black and colors. Open stripes, little figures; every one tasteful and good.

Length from 3 to 19 yards, 36 inches wide, and in patterns equally good for shirts, for waists, for children's dresses, and for house-gowns.

Shorter pieces, we cannot cut. From longer ones, any desired length will be clipped.

Regular price is 15 cents a yard. Share in these, while they are to be had, at

Lovely party dresses for girls; big and little.

How delightful it would be to do away with the need of planning and working and worrying over the party need of planning and working and worrying over the party dress for Daughter.

And, actually, it is simple as it is delightful. The Girls' Shop has solved the problem.

Here are party frocks that are as dainty and lovely and altogether-satisfying as those that one would spend days and days upon in the sewing-room. They have girlish grace. They are made with much care. And they are distinctive because scarce two are similar except in the essential points that the mode of the season calls for.

For girls of 6 to 14, pretty challis, $5 and more.

For girls of 14 to 18, embroidered net and handsome crepe de chine. Some decorated with flowers painted by the clever fingers of skilled artists. Rich delicate hues as well as white, $16.75 to $22.50.

Second floor.

Brown gray tan; right colors for suits for clever young men.

Young fellow just graduating into long-trouser suit or the young man who wants to be absolutely sure of getting the latest and correct fabric and cut. Neither can go wrong at the Boys' Shop.

This store treats boys, growing and grown, as it knows they want to be treated. There is a special section for them. In it they can bank upon finding clothes that are right. Right in every way, that means.

We have our suits made by tailors who don't skimp in either fabric or work. They are roomy and they fit well. They are tailored with care as well as skill; that makes them hold their shape. And they have all the little touches that a young fellow's clothes ought to have to give them distinction.

Wool fabrics, of course, for no other are worth while.

Brown gray and tan are favored colors in fancy weaves. Plain blue, always in tune with the occasion whether it be work or play.

Plenty of those Scotch fabrics and chevrons as well as worsteds. Business-like air about them; air that appeals to a live young fellow.

Great appeal too in the price. That is a real magnet. Clear saving on every suit. You can see it at a glance for yourself. No need to tell of it. The suits tell their own story.

How much? $10 to $16.50.

What value? Come and you will see.
